11:30am	New Orleans	Taking a Costume From Idea to Reality Making a costume can be fun and easy if you know to match your process to your skill set! We'll discuss basic silhouettes, patterns to start with for the non pattern -drafter, resources, etc. How to approach the process, what steps to take when, what to avoid, and some general inspiration and encouragement.	Elizabeth Reed
1:00pm	Atlanta	Book repair This will be a demonstration of simple book repairs: fixing a loose hinge, replacing pages that have come loose or completely out of the book, reinforcing corners and using Mylar covers to protect books from everyday wear and tear.	Dawn Meister
1:00pm	New Orleans	Steampunk Your Shoes Learn tips and tricks to take everyday shoes from blah to blinged, from ordinary to outstanding. We'll have a focus on Steampunking footwear but the techniques can be used for restyling shoes any which way.	Arabella Benson
1:00pm	Boston	How to Survive a Zombie Apocalypse I had a friend who wasn't worried about zombies because 'they move so slow.' That friend is now nothing more than a chewed up carcass of week-old zombie leftovers. Don't let that happen to you! Prepare for the worst cast scenario of brain-hungry fiends with this critically important seminar.
